Our Annual Celebration of Dance, Music, Drama, Poetry, Painting, Comedy, Performance, Literature, Arts & Crafts ...

oh, and of course ... Pumpkins!
during the month of October

NEW - Festival Writing Competition see pages 12/13
Here we are again! The annual extravaganza of all that is good in the arts world in Mole Valley – which has now been going for 22 years – spilling over at each end of the month of October. There is something for everyone - young and old, serious and fun-filled, listening, seeing and participating.

There is an exciting new creative writing event this year ‘MVAAF Writing Competition’ - please see page 12/13 for details. Former chairman Maurice Homewood and Peter Snell of Barton’s Bookshop, Leatherhead, have been planning an event such as this for a number of years, so we are delighted to include it this year for the very first time. Originality through a competition of this type of event is essential in attracting new participants and, indeed, audiences. This year we are inviting senior citizens’ recollections but next year we will focus on schools. I am really looking forward to seeing the results.

Once again we have had fantastic input from Mole Valley District Council and Surrey County Councillors – this year Helyn Clack is coming in with Stephen Cooksey and Tim Hall in their support of the festival, one of the largest in South East England. Gatwick Airport is joining the many other regular sponsors, who you will find on page 51 of this brochure. And, for a second year, the delightful and talented artist, Sherree Valentine Daines, has agreed to be our patron.

The hard-working volunteers of the committee can’t be thanked enough for throwing themselves wholeheartedly into organising Arts Alive.

We know that you will be spoilt for choice when perusing the brochure, and look forward to seeing many of you at many of the events.

Mary Huggins, Festival Chairman
SHERREE enjoys a position at the forefront of British art, and has done so for many years. She has been variously described as ‘the face of modern British impressionism’, ‘artist to the stars’, (Daily Express) and ‘the finest figurative artist we have here in the UK’ (Art of England). Technically brilliant, stylistically virtuosic and endlessly vigilant, she creates masterly evocations of some of the most beautiful elements of British life, from the elegance of the social whirl to the innocence of the children’s seaside outing.

Her exquisite paintings have been exhibited at such prestigious venues as the Tate Gallery, the Barbican, the Royal Society of British Artists, the Royal Institute of Oil Painters, the Laing Landscape Exhibition, the Royal Institute of Painters in Watercolours, the Royal Watercolour Society, the Hesketh Hubbard Art Society, the New English Art Club, the National Society of Painters, the United Society of Painters and the Pastel Society. Sherree’s work is also in the Lord’s Museum and is held in many private collections all over the world.

Sherree’s unquestionable virtuosity has made her a favourite with many celebrity collectors including members of the British Royal Family and former Prime Minister Sir John Major. Many famous names in the world of show-business have sat for her including Joanna Lumley, John Sessions and Sir Michael Parkinson. She was also commissioned to paint portraits of Jonny Wilkinson and Martin Johnson for a pair of commemorative Limited Editions (signed by both artist and player). Her most recent portrait featured Sebastian Coe (Lord Coe).

Sherree is both the critic’s choice and the people’s choice, winning many high profile awards, and she has been officially voted the UK’s leading Modern Impressionist. A familiar face on our televisions she has appeared in programmes as varied as ‘To the Manor Bowen’ and ‘This Morning’; this autumn she was seen painting a £75,000 commission of a society bride in Channel 4’s documentary, ‘How the Rich Get Hitched’, and the reaction of the bride put all the other extraordinary elements of her wedding in the shade! When Champagne Bollinger commissioned Sherree to create a painting to illustrate a quintessential moment of the summer season, they made an inspired choice.

In its 22nd year Mole Valley District Council is proud to have supported the annual Arts Alive Festival since its inception in 1994. Arts Alive helps to showcase the very best Mole Valley has to offer and provides a wonderful opportunity to experience a wide variety of events, activities and performances. It is great to see that this year’s festival promotes community wellbeing, and I hope that even more people get involved and we manage to increase participation further than the fantastic 21,000 people who took part in last year’s event. I would like to wish the organisers and all those who get involved all the very best for Arts Alive 2016.

As illustrated by the introduction of the new Writing Competition mentioned above, the committee actively encourage event organisers, participants and audiences alike to help develop the festival further. If you value the diversity and creativity you see here, make sure you take part in and attend events, which is surely the best way to support and nurture the Festival. If you have ideas and interests of your own that you think could be added to enhance next year’s festival, or you would like to get involved and contribute to Arts Alive’s future...

please contact Dick Jones on studio@jonescreative.co.uk
This year’s competition is aimed at the richly-stored memories of the senior citizens of our district. (Next year there will be something for our schools). To enter, you must be 65 or over on the day of sending in your entry and be a Mole Valley resident.

The piece you write should be called ‘A Chapter from my Life’ and should be no more than three A4 pages long, in double-spaced typing - 800 words absolute maximum. You should choose some event from your own life which you think would interest and/or entertain others. Many of our senior residents have memories of events that took place in World War 2, to say nothing of other important national or personal events. (Note: It is possible that extracts from winning entries might be published in local papers or be read aloud at the presentation ceremony).

Don’t let lack of typing skills put you off - if you don’t type easily, dictate it, or give your handwritten chapter to someone who can - but the chapter must be your own work, end-to-end. You must sign your chapter with a pen-name, so that judges are not influenced in any way by who you are or where you live. Judging will be carried out by the Mole Valley Creative Writing Group (address on entry form opposite).

All entries must be received by Monday 24th October

You must send a cheque for £5 with your entry - this will be used to pay expenses and to help us make grants to Mole Valley arts organisations during our festival. If you would like your entry returned, please enclose a stamped addressed envelope.

The First Prize, which will be presented by the proprietor of Bartons Bookshop, Leatherhead, will be a £50 book voucher and £50 in cash. There will be a Second Prize of £25 in vouchers and £25 cash. Presentations will be made in early November - time and place yet to be arranged, keep an eye on the website.

Miss Randall’s Sewing Birds

Fire & Iron Gallery, Rowhurst Forge, Oxshott Road, Leatherhead KT22 0EN

Oenone Randall has exhibited her copper sculptures at Fire & Iron since the 1990s. A degree in embroidery followed by a master’s in metals contributed to Oenone’s delightful combinations of lively, delicate textiles with the gorgeous, nutty colours of patinated copper. Inspired by the wildlife living in and around the organically-managed Fire & Iron site, Oenone has created a colourful and stylish flock of native birds for the Mole Valley Arts Alive Festival 2016. ‘Sewing Birds’ is a deliberate play on words - Oenone is ‘sewing birds’, and a ‘sewing bird’ was a sewing aid made popular in the Georgian period; it was a bird-shaped clamp which fixed to a table and firmly held in its beak the cloth that was being stitched.

The Soul in the Machine

Leatherhead Theatre, 7 Church Street, Leatherhead KT22 8DN

“We are more than bodies to be fed to a machine. We are made for more than work. We have souls, we have spirits and somewhere in this dead city there must be a place for those things.” London, 1844 - Centre of Empire, crucible of the New Jerusalem. Her gutters run with effluent and blood and her skies are choked with the smoke of a hundred factories and foundries, but above the smoke, the stars still shine. George Williams is a country boy who comes to the city to find his place in the world and to make his mark. Appalled by the spirit-crushing rhythms of the Worker’s life he fights to spread the light of God, and create a place where the soul can be nurtured. The Giant’s Loo Roll
Dorking Halls, Reigate Road, Dorking RH4 1SG
Look out for the biggest loo roll ever on stage in this GIANT of a children's musical. The villagers living in the town below the Giant's house had better watch out, that loo roll has gone bouncing down the hill and straight towards them! Luckily, the townsfolk find lots of uses for runaway loo paper - one sheet provides a huge canvas for an artist, a tailor uses another to fill her shop with paper pants and a school class makes a huge dart that can fly. But what about the Giant himself - doesn't he need any loo paper? The townspeople have an answer for that, too!

Henning Wehn: Westphalia Is Not An Option

Dorking Halls, Reigate Road, Dorking RH4 1SG

Join German Comedy Ambassador Henning Wehn for an evening of Teutonic jolliness at its best. He also wonders, if, generally speaking, people are competent. Luckily in his case this doesn’t matter as either he’s funny or he lives up to a national stereotype.

It’s a win-win situation.

While reporting on a murder at The Leatherhead Arts Theatre in 1968 a young journalist stumbles upon a gripping tale of eternal love, war, betrayal, murder and destiny. Based on a real event, the play uncovers the murderous motives, taking the audience on a journey from a peaceful beach in 1905 through the muddy trenches of the First World War, and on into the future. Freewheelers are pioneers of a new and inclusive language for theatre. We work with disabled and non-disabled artists using dance, film, music and animation.

We achieve high production standards alongside a person-centred approach. We entertain, innovate, collaborate, and challenge perceptions. We surprise people.
